a) Come up with three pieces of information that are fundamentally analog, but can be discretized to produce Boolean information.

b) Come up with three pieces of information that are inherently Boolean in nature – in other words, they are not analog values that can be discretized into Boolean information, but instead fundamentally have only two values.